Nearby me, the Airmen of Note are giving a free concert at the Grand Opera House in Oshkosh WI Sunday afternoon. Free tickets all gone. The flyer I get from the Opera House got here too late.

I went to Jim Denton's house Saturday for a Great Plains Audio Club meeting and had a great time.Are you getting any response from folks in Wisconsin yet? You know, for years and years, it seemed like no one in Tulsa was into this kind of stuff. There were lots of folks here that wanted status symbol sound systems, but I didn't know many people that were really interested in sound quality. I guess that statement might sound arrogant, but I think it's true. But then, in the last year, seems like things have come together here. So keep plugging away on the forums. You'll eventually find those with interest in Wisconsin.Anyway, here are some photos of the last meeting of the Great Plains club:

I have close to 30 names of people... waiting for me to send theman invitation to participate I guess. I took a break (so far)this month and have not posted the request for interest. Lasttime I did that I said I'd slow it down so it doesn't get repetitivein the larger groups.  So maybe I'll go to every other month.  Most of the contacts were from readers at Madisound, and PE.Absolutely nothing from places like Wisconsin Woodworker's Guildor Northeast Wisconsin Woodworkers Guild.  I am from Appleton in Northeast Wisconsin just belowGreen Bay (home of the Packers.) Maybe I should put out a message on the list.  What should it say?  ;-)lon@athenet.net

Sounds like you have a pretty big group.  I'll bet you could gather at someone's house, maybe rotate between club members homes for each meeting.
