Here's a few pics I took on vacation last week. I have about 900 more to look through, LOL, so keep checking back if you're interested. A couple have been photoshopped a little (removing power lines, adjusting the brightness/saturation, etc...) but nothing that really changes them much from the original.Unfortunately, it was pretty cold the firt couple of days we arrived and the wildflowers dissappeared until the day we left, so no cool pictures of those. I will make a return trip just to take pics of the wildflowers.

Awesome photos, Shane! Thanks for posting them.That first one would make a great framed photo for the office or den.

Thanks Wayne. I had just got a new Nikon D40 and had about 2 days to play with it before going on vacation, so they didn't turn out as well as they could of. It was a pretty steep learning curve after being away from SLR's for 20 years.

Yeah, they came out OK. I've got about 900 more to really sift through and see which ones are worth doing something with. I figure if I get 10 good shots then I'm ahead of the curve.
