

---

Subject: Survived the move and made a discovery
Posted by BillEpstein on Fri, 27 Dec 2002 19:29:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Just before I packed evrything away Tues nite, all the neighbors went away, even the Clydesdales upstairs. So naturally, being Christmas eve, I cranked the system on "Cantate Domino" and Handels' "Messiah"; Harnoncourt version on Chesky. In case you're wondering, this is what Jewish audiophiles do every Christmas Eve:) Played louder and with more realistic dB's than I have in a long time. With the SET 2 watt Paramours on both the Theatre 4's and the 3677S cabs with the 2226J/2618 combo. Didn't strain either one. Besides the magnificent music, I was struck by the airier quality of the PSD2002 on the Theatre's. More of a sense of space; of singers and players performing in a space. Lovely decay of notes held. I was especially listening for cross-over anomalies at these higher levels and could find none. The Soprano on "Silent Night" and especially John Shirley-Quirk's baritone were just gorgeous. The massed choirs on "O Holy Night" and 'The Hallelujah Chorus' had wonderful depth and width of soundstage and what sonority! SATB right there in my living room. I was ready to be disappointed by playing this system at those levels with that content, but, I was amazed. The poor little 3677 hybrid ran and hid in the corner. So now there's nothing to be done but build the little 4Pro box and try the PSD2002 with the 3677 with Wayne's crossover and Wayne's box size and Wayne's port! Wayne's the Man! Oh yeah. Something needs to be written about how much better this system is with Matt Anker's mods to the Sony 775 (SACdmods.com). Toroidal power supply, Black gates and the output biased into class "A" and the LCAudio clock. Whoa. Talk about inner detail. Talk about shimmering highs and voices and instruments coming from a blacker background! Who makes up these phrases, anyway? And why am I repeating them? So how was your Christmas?

---

Subject: Re: Survived the move and made a discovery
Posted by spkrman57 on Fri, 27 Dec 2002 21:41:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hey Tille, I disconnected the 2418/2373's on my 3677 cabinets and hooked up my Altec 806A/811B's after setting them on top, The 3677 cabinet is not perfectly in line with Wayne's 4-pi pro cabinet, but did you remove the foam from both ports??? It makes a big difference, Sorry, I have to try and defend the JBL 2226 against the vicious onslaught of the attack of the Eminence Delta 15. Once I had the Altecs on top and tweaked the crossover a little to deal with 16 ohm drivers, sounds very good. Would be tranferring the crossover to my Altec A-8's, but alas, a situation you can relate to, My shower upstairs drained through the kitchen sink pipes and exited on my kitchen floor. 6 am in the morning is not fun time with shop-vac sucking up water from my kitchen floor, this is day 2, I think I am much better working with speakers than plumbing. Tried my second combination of drain cleaners today with not too good success. E-mail me buddy, I need help here. I can't work on speakers until I get this fixed up. Had to move the A-8 cabinets out of the kitchen in a hurry, they look like they did not get hurt too bad from the experience. Regards, Ron

Subject: my 2 best gifts.....

Posted by replay on Fri, 27 Dec 2002 23:27:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

i received are a ratshack digital spl meter and an "art blakey" 1958 paris olympia cd. i'm crankin the cd right now, enjoying the 2 watt peaks at 12 feet. measuring 96db on the meter. boy is it loud. the psd2002 sure sound sweet on bill's horns, i'll never change them. the karlson's are kick ass dynamic and i enjoy the raw edge they give to the music. i can picture art playing on stage with a room full of smoke from all those gitanes. those were the days!enjoy the holidays!george

---

---

Subject: Re: Survived the move and made a discovery

Posted by Wayne Parham on Sat, 28 Dec 2002 16:29:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Christmas was great here - Been playing less than working for a change. Hey - Are you "not in exile" anymore? Are you in Florida?

---

---

Subject: Re: Survived the move and made a discovery

Posted by bmar on Sat, 28 Dec 2002 17:48:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Survived what move willy? I must have missed something.Christmas was great hear in ROchester. We had 10" of to wake up to Christmas morning so it was a white Christmas indeed. It proceeded to snow all day and now a few days after I'm now ready for spring and tired of running the heat out in the shop already! Been working on speakers (suprise) and doing some testing on 12" horns today. Trying to get a bunch of data compiled for the web page one of these days. Bill

---