So, is there any easy way to post photos or other scanned images here with out using a website (which I don't have) or a photo site which I don't want to pay for. Don't mean to sound growley as my kids say but this whole digital world is such a PITA, addicting and down right amazing. Must Be An Easier Way Garland

Does your ISP offer a website? I pay AT&T $20 bucks a month and get the website you've seen as part of the package. The creation is just by a template they offer and took maybe 20 minutes. Or if you know what you're doing you can create a custom site there, too. Hewlett Packard has an album site called Cartogra which was free. Don't know about now. Yahoo and Geocities give you the ISP and site package. If I didn't enjoy posting pictures on teh boards, I wouldn't even have one. Certainly not selling anything:) Merry Pranks Website
