Got the call tonite that #1 daughters in labor. 3 weeks early. She says she's OK, not to worry. Sure!Got talked out of going to the hospital.Built a pair of the White Lightning interconnects over the past few hours. Have had the parts for months. No word yet.They really do sound good but the Switchcraft RCA's are a pain and I managed to stab myself deeply in the palm during an impromptu knife-catching contest. I haven't found the best order of assembly yet but Jeff Days instructions leave something to be desired. Definitely solder the hot before any crimping and bend the tabs down that hold the neutral a bit before assembly; they're pretty rigid.

Congratulations on your new granddaughter! Time files, seems like just a few months back you were going to her wedding. But I guess that's been years now.Take care of that hand.
