Wayne, could I please obtain your folded horn 10pi plans, what is the difference in the two different sizes? I note one is some 10 inches taller than the other. I believe, without knowing more that I am interested in the smaller ( 52") one. This is for home use. I know they are big, no problem...current speaks Are VOTT A-7. Thanks, Russellc

The larger horn is made to be disassembled and carried in sections, to make it easier for one-man transport. As such, it has a removable motor chamber, flare section and HF/MF sections. That's why it's taller - the high frequency sections are separate.
