Welcome!This new site has the same format, with just a few minor cosmetic changes.  It promises to be a more friendly environment, with a familiar look.  We're all very excited about it!

Well, I've enjoyed the new forum, but my computer can no longer find it.  Did you change your web host?  What is the new URL?

I'm glad you're enjoying the new forum.  I am too;  AudioRoundTable.com is a much friendlier environment than the old place and I believe it attracts a much more ethical and enjoyable group forum is www.AudioRoundTable.com/PiSpeakers.AudioRoundTable.com recently upgraded its server, necessitating a DNS change.  Most nameservers pick up new domain names quickly, but some are slower than others.  The National DNS provides the information within 5 hours, but if the nameserver you connect with hasn't updated its copy of the information then it will then point to an outdated address.
