Subject: Trying out a photo link
Posted by JLapaire on Wed, 31 Dec 2003 15:54:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've had so much trouble posting pictures that I decided to try one of the free website hosts. This is a shot from last year's setup. Quasi-Theater 4 and Buschhorn MK2/1197 left channel. No shot of the electronics because you'd laugh.Hope it works.John

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by shawn on Wed, 31 Dec 2003 20:15:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nice! If you still have the Theater 4's around, I'ed like to check t hem out... maybe they morphed in to the Carlson's? In any case, the Bhorns are looking and sounding great in my living room as I type. See you in January and we can trade Buschhorns (maybe Ill show up with a pair of FE103 enclosures).shawn

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by Adrian Mack on Thu, 01 Jan 2004 01:25:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That looks really cool John. Well done!What sort of finishing is that?

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by Bill Martinelli on Thu, 01 Jan 2004 02:06:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi John!Happy new year. Your speaks look great. When the next NEBOT ? I'm ready to make the trip againBill

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by wasteh202 on Thu, 01 Jan 2004 15:26:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello there JohnI was wondering if you could give a comparison of these two speakers ?Therse bhorns and single driver type speakers are intriquing to me and I have heard good things about them. I don't see how they could possible compare to the q-4's... but perhaps you can tell me. Thanks !

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by Garland on Thu, 01 Jan 2004 23:34:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi Bill,The next meeting is supposed to be at Steve Culton's just south of Harford, Conn. this month(January). Hope to see you there. Check out the Bottlehead Forum for particulars; soon to be posted, I'd wager.Garland

---

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 02 Jan 2004 06:12:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi John!I agree with everyone else here, that your speakers are stunning.Every time someone speakers. They really look great!Wayne

Subject: Re: Trying out a photo link
Posted by JLapaire on Fri, 02 Jan 2004 13:21:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi Shawn,Yes, they did, but the Delta 15A was actually more successful in the Theater 4 than in the Karlson enclosure. I retained the HF and crossover and just recently installed Delta Pros in the Ks. BTW, stuffing changes to your Bhorns were significant, I'll email you. Maybe carpool?To answer wasteh202 and Adrian's questions, I've forgotten what stain I used, but the finish is 7 or 8 coats of Tung Oil finish rubbed in over the course of a week or so. It's the Formby's product which I think has some urethane in it. Comparing the two speakers is easy because they're so different, and I did it several times with different groups of people - The Bhorns make a wonderful soundstage when they're positioned right and have a very natural sound. Being single driver (and tiny), the coherency comes at the cost of extended range and power. The 4s sound like live music and are probably 8-10db more sensitive. They're very dynamic and don't seem to care what they're driven with - I've heard them with some beautiful 2 watt SE tube types and they had no trouble with my 200+ watt/ch Crown, but you need hearing protection at that level because it's around 120db. You also should secure small decorative objects and afterwards go around straightening out whatever pictures are still hanging on the walls.I sold the cabs to a person who, like me, may be more interested in the journey than the destination and they might be available.BTW, I built them such that I could pull the horns out, turn the cabs backwards into the corner and set the horns on top, sort of like the Theater 7 to gain bass response, which they did.I think the NE Bot meet is the 24th at Steve's.I'm glad the link works! Thanks for the interest.John

---