Today, being Monday, seemed like a good day to play "Fleetwood Mac" with "Monday Morning" as the first song on side one. I always liked the quality of the Mobile Fidelity half-speed master pressing of this album on vinyl. In fact, I'm lucky enough to still own a bunch of the 70's half-speed master pressings from this company, and they're really great.

Wayne, I just saw this post (boy, am I on top of things.) So, you like MFSL vinyl do you. Do you have the Woodstock box set? I've got one sitting around that I listened to once or twice since I purchased new in the mid-80's.....Colin Wow, no - I don't have the Woodstock set. That's so cool that you do!

I no longer listen to vinyl nor will I ever in the future. I would like to offer this for sale on your site, with all proceeds going to ART. No B.S. Since I have no way to check quality of vinyl anymore, I would like to send it to you for verification. Once you have approved its quality, I will post a for sale add and you verify. If you think the quality is sub-par, then simply do with it what you wish. Like I said, no BS - no catches. It just kills me seeing this sit and collect dust. It would make me happy knowing someone is getting some aural pleasure from it.
