

---

Subject: KSN1038

Posted by wasteh202 on Sat, 20 Mar 2004 20:15:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Wayne...Thanks for the advice about the KSN1038. I did take the piezo apart as you suggested. It did have a lot of debris inside. Most of it seemed to be plastic bits, probably from screwing the horn together. Nonetheless it may have been contributing to the problem. I think most of the distortion I am hearing is coming from the mid/woofer. I did wrap the backside of the KSN1038's with some Rope Caulk... and I must say I believe there is a difference for the better. I will likely treat the Alpha 10 baskets with something also... I am not sure about the Rope Caulk for those. Thanks to all who responded.

---

---

Subject: Re: KSN1038

Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 21 Mar 2004 03:28:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Glad you found the junk inside, and glad you got rid of it too. That didn't sound right. I'm not actually glad you found junk inside, well, you know what I mean.

---

---

Subject: Re: KSN1038

Posted by wasteh202 on Sun, 21 Mar 2004 03:35:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Yes... I was really surprised how much there was... and how easy it was to do the job. Thanks again for the help Wayne, you are always SO helpful !! I would recommend to everybody that is using the KSN-1038 to open them up and dump the junk inside... I doubt that mine were far from what many others have inside them.

---

---

Subject: Re: KSN1038

Posted by Adrian Mack on Sun, 21 Mar 2004 10:26:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Was there junk inside it when you took it out of the carton that you bought it in?

---

---

Subject: Re: KSN1038

Posted by wasteh202 on Sun, 21 Mar 2004 12:48:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

No! Although I never opened up the peizo out of the package to inspect them at the time. They were sealed in plastic as Wayne ships them with the wire harness and logos. I would have never suspected there was that much stuff in there. Perhaps some of the tiny bit of the saw dust was added by me ? Don't know.

---