A day or so ago, I shared a couple of pictures of my MBOW1 project with Wayne and he asked me to post them here. I have attached a link to my index page which contains links to all my diy projects and my home theater. The home theater is out of date and the current version looks different and is more refined. I need to update that site with current pictures. I'll also soon be adding a link to my three tube amp projects I'll be working on. I'll also go back and add a link to Pi Speakers. Finally, this is a free site and has limited bandwidth. It also now has some annoying sidebar that pops up. It is supposed to be an actual sidebar and is on my laptop but on my desktop, it opens as a page over my site. If this happens, you'll have to use the back button to get rid of it. It looks like I'll be moving my sites to a new home or pay a few bucks for my own domain.<http://europa70.tripod.com/index001.htm>Jeff
