Subject: Stoetkit Free Demo - Sound off
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 29 Aug 2004 12:05:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

How many of you are participating in the Stoetkit demo program that FSAudio is doing? I'm kind of curious and looking for a "show of hands." I'd like to know where the amp is going, so sound off if you're already signed up. If you aren't and want to be, give the word and Frank will send the amp to you for a two-week trial period, with no obligation to buy. Just write in with a "thumbs up" or a "thumbs down" after you've heard it.Stoetkit Jr Mk2I've just been ecstatic about this little amp, heard several amps in its price range that I enjoy, but I was pleased that this one really does it for combination is excellentPiano sounds wonderful and is disarmingly life-like. I'm very proud of my up bass is tight and defined, you can hear the cello like it is right there with you. No matter where excellent system that I can really get passionate about. I'm anxious for everyone to be able to hear this, so don't let the opportunity pass you by.

Subject: Re: Stoetkit Free Demo - Sound off Posted by steve f on Sun, 29 Aug 2004 17:09:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi Wayne,I'm one of the curious, but I didn't sign up. Not enough free time lately. Kinda' wish I did though. I have a pair of ASL Wave amps on hand that use the same tubes. They are quite good with my Theater 4's. I expect that the Stoekit should be even better considering that the transformers should be higher grade. I am eager to read the reviews too.Take care,Steve