Hello all,I've built 13 different speakers over the last 5-yrs. All have been for HT and 2-channel music. I now need to build a set of speakers for our basement rec room that can be used for music and karaoke. I never built a Pi speaker, but when I think of stage or pro sound speakers, I always think of horns. My room is almost square and approx 16x18 w/a bar. Due to the location of the bar, I will only have one corner available. Are there any particular Pi speakers that could meet my need?Thanks

It kind of depends on your requirements and your budget. You could start with a pair of tower two bass bin. So there are lots of good options, and you can probably find something you like that fits your budget and tastes.
