
Subject: Theater 4pi vs Pro 4pi
Posted by mito on Wed, 28 Dec 2005 10:16:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi!! I am in need of some advice/opinions regarding Theater 4pi and Pro 4pi!! I am thinking of building one of them but which I don't know. The current system is Bob Brines LT-2000 (Lowther DX2) construction driven by two monoblock Audion 300B push pull, approx. 24W. I am happy with this due to the kind of music I am into (blues, country, rock). But what I am looking for now is speakers which handle rock music better (more bass). I would be grateful for opinions! Michael

Subject: Re: Theater 4pi vs Pro 4pi
Posted by spkrman57 on Wed, 28 Dec 2005 10:53:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rock is actually more midbass than bass and the 4 Pi Pro does very well down to 40hz and lower depending on room conditions. The 4 Pi Pro is also much smaller cabinet and easier to fit in the room. Ron

Subject: Re: Theater 4pi vs Pro 4pi
Posted by mito on Wed, 28 Dec 2005 12:48:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What else can you say about 4 Pi Pro concerning to soundstage, clearness etc.. Are they easy to run?

Subject: Re: Theater 4pi vs Pro 4pi
Posted by spkrman57 on Wed, 28 Dec 2005 22:39:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My favorite 2-way is the 4 Pi Pro system with Edgarhorns and Altec 902 drivers. I have run them with single-ended EL34's, 45, 2A3 amps which are all low power tube amps. When I feel brave, I use my McIntosh MC-240 amp with 40wpc and will blow out the windows and be clean as hell. Ron
